

Privacy Policy

The www.btinfodictionary.com website is operated by its owner – BTInfo Biuro Tłumaczeń Informatycznych Przyłuccy S.J. The terms and conditions below specify the rules of collecting, using, disclosing and processing information collected by means of the www.btinfodictionary.com website. BTInfo requires you to give only those data which are necessary for a particular purpose (e.g. creating user profile).

Collected data

1. The data collected by us are the data entered by persons who use the www.btinfodictionary.com website and includes e-mail address as well as entries added to private and company dictionaries. By no means does BTInfo require you to enter "sensitive" data, such as credit card or bank account numbers or information on your faith or sexual orientation.
2. Voluntary entry of your data is tantamount to consenting to collecting, using, disclosing and processing them pursuant to these terms and conditions.
3. All data collected and processed by us are stored on servers located in Poland.

Data protection

1. BTInfo makes all reasonable efforts to protect the data from accidental, unauthorized access, use, change or damage.
2. BTInfo does not disclose to third parties any information which would enable the identification of particular website users or are considered confidential without user's prior consent.
3. Personal data may be disclosed by us only if it is required by law or if, acting in good faith, we are convinced that such disclosure is necessary to maintain compliance with mandatory provisions or legal procedures applying to this website.

Using the data

1. The data provided by the user may be used only in order to collect it in the dictionaries (private or company) or enter it in the BTInfo Newsletter database, and afterwards to send information and marketing materials.
2. If after receiving marketing information by e-mail, the user wants to stop receiving it, they may remove their data from the Newsletter database at any time by using the link which is available in any sent information.
3. BTInfo does not sell website user data and does not make them available to anyone. We may transfer the collected data to our partners or third persons only with the user's consent.
4. The privacy policy of third parties whose links are provided on BTInfo website is regulated by separate provisions.
